

01 SMALL TALK

When you eat out with friends, do you usually split the bill or take turns paying?

Do you usually pay with a card or with cash when you go out?

When was the last time someone treated you to coffee or a meal?

02 POP QUIZ — DOES THIS SOUND NATURAL?

1 ~~"We meeting for 3 months."~~

✓ "We've been seeing each other for 3 months."

계속 이어지는 기간엔 현재완료진행(have been -ing)을 써요. 연애 초반엔 seeing each other가 자연스러워요.

2 ~~"He gave me a big impression."~~

✓ "He made a big impression on me."

인상은 make/leave an impression on someone이 고정 표현이에요. give는 안 맞아요.

3 ~~"I am in a diet."~~

✓ "I'm on a diet."

다이어트 '중'일 땐 on a diet이 고정이에요. in은 안 써요.

03 오늘의 워업

리더 또는 서포터가 본인 관련 3개 문장 (2개 진실, 1개 거짓) 읽음. 멤버가 거짓 맞히기. 그다음 다음 사람.

WARM-UP

Two Truths, One Lie (8분)

1 On my very first date, I paid for everything and felt totally fine about it.

2 My partner and I once put money into a shared 'date account' every month.

3 I once split a coffee bill down to the last 100 won with someone I really liked.

LOVE · MAIN DISCUSSION

Dating Costs — Split, Take Turns, or Pay by Situation?

🇰🇷 BACKGROUND

데이트 비용은 N분의 1로 나눌지, 번갈아 낼지, 상황에 따라 다르게 낼지에 따라 기준이 크게 갈려요. 데이트 비용은 단순히 돈 계산만의 문제가 아니라 서로의 소득, 데이트 빈도, 만나는 장소, 관계의 편안함까지 같이 드러나는 부분이에요. 요즘은 데이트 통장처럼 둘이 미리 돈을 넣어두고 그 안에서 쓰는 방식도 하나의 선택지가 돼요. 누군가에게는 깔끔하고 덜 민망한 방식이지만, 누군가에게는 관계가 너무 계산적으로 느껴질 수도 있어요. 결국 중요한 건 완벽한 공식이 아니라 두 사람이 부담 없이 말할 수 있는 돈의 리듬을 만드는 일이에요.

📖 READ BEFORE WE TALK

Dating costs are not only about who pays the bill. They show how two people understand fairness, care, income difference, and comfort in a relationship. Splitting everything can feel clean and equal to one person, but cold or too calculated to another. Some couples avoid the awkwardness by using a shared dating account: both people put in money, and dates are paid from it. For some, it feels practical because no one has to count every meal or taxi ride. For others, it can make the relationship feel too budgeted, especially early on. Splitting, taking turns, paying by situation, or using a shared account can all feel fair in the right relationship. The real issue is not the perfect formula. It is whether both people can talk about money without embarrassment and feel comfortable with the rhythm they build together.

💡 WORDS YOU MIGHT NEED

split the bill — 비용을 나눠 내다 (더치페이)

take turns paying — 번갈아 내다

it balances out / evens out — 결국 균형이 맞다

a deal-breaker — 절대 양보 못 하는 조건

keep score — 속으로 점수를 세다

income gap — 소득 차이

💡 TRY THESE PHRASES

Honestly, I lean toward __ because __.

It really comes down to how __, so usually __.

The way I see it, __ — but __.

Compared to __, splitting feels __ to me.

⚡ EASY ENTRY

- 1 What's your usual move when the bill arrives at the end of a date or a meal out?
- 2 When was the last time you treated someone, or someone treated you?
- 3 Quick — if you had to pick: cash, card, or an app transfer like Toss — how do you usually settle up after splitting a bill?
- 4 Picture this: your date secretly paid the whole bill before you could even reach for your wallet. How would you feel?

🗣️ MAIN DISCUSSION

Q1. Which feels most comfortable for dating costs: splitting, taking turns, or paying by situation? Why?

↳ Honestly, I lean toward __ because __.

↳ It really comes down to how __, so usually __.

Q2. Does splitting everything feel fair and clean, or too calculated and cold?

↳ The way I see it, __ — but __.

↳ Compared to __, splitting feels __ to me.

Q3. Would a shared dating account make things easier, or make the relationship feel too calculated?

↳ If I had to guess, a shared account would __.

↳ The thing is, it could __, as long as __.

Q4. If one person earns more, should they naturally pay more on dates?

↳ When I think about it, __ makes sense because __.

↳ It depends on __, but most of the time __.

Q5. When is the right time to talk about money in a relationship — early, naturally, or only when it feels uneven?

↳ What helps me decide is __, so I'd say __.

↳ In my case, talking early worked because __.