

01 SMALL TALK

When was the last time you spoke English to someone? Was it fun or a little stressful?

Do you usually leave work or class right on time, or stay a little late?

Coffee, tea, or nothing — what gets your morning started?

02 POP QUIZ — DOES THIS SOUND NATURAL?

① ~~"I want to develop myself."~~

✓ "I want to grow professionally."

사람의 성장은 *develop*가 아니라 grow / *improve*로 표현해요.

② ~~"My company is very welfare."~~

✓ "My company has great benefits."

회사 복지는 *welfare*가 아니라 benefits / *perks*라고 해요.

③ ~~"I resigned my job."~~

✓ "I quit my job."

*resign*은 *from*이 필요하고, 일상에선 보통 *quit*을 써요.

03 오늘의 워업

각 라운드 손가락으로 A 또는 B. 한 라운드마다 한 명 짧게 이유.

WARM-UP

Would You Rather (5분)

1

Get honest, direct feedback that can feel a little harsh

VS

Get soft, polite feedback that is sometimes unclear

2

Speak only English in every meeting, even when it's tiring

VS

Speak Korean and feel comfortable, but use less English

3

Have a clear job role with strong pressure to perform

VS

Have a flexible role with less pressure but unclear goals

4

Work in a flat company where you call your boss by first name

VS

Work in a company with clear titles and a clear hierarchy

CAREER · MAIN DISCUSSION

Foreign Company Interviews — What Actually Feels Different?

🇰🇷 BACKGROUND

한국 회사와 외국계 회사의 문화 차이는 일이 나와 잘 맞는지에 큰 영향을 줍니다. 외국계는 수평적인 분위기, 영어 사용, 명확한 역할, 워라밸 이미지 때문에 좋아 보일 수 있지만, 성과 압박이나 직설적인 소통 방식은 또 다른 스트레스가 될 수 있어요. 결국 중요한 건 어느 쪽이 무조건 좋은 지가 아니라 내 성향과 맞는 방식이에요. 빠른 피드백과 명확한 책임을 좋아하는 사람에게는 잘 맞고, 애매한 영어 회의나 개인 성과 압박이 부담스러운 사람에게는 생각보다 피곤할 수 있어요.

📖 READ BEFORE WE TALK

Foreign company culture can sound attractive in Korea. People often imagine clearer roles, flatter communication, better work-life balance, and more international experience. For someone tired of hierarchy or late-night work, that image feels refreshing. But a different culture does not always mean less stress. English meetings, direct feedback, performance pressure, and less hand-holding can create a new kind of difficulty. The real question is whether the working style fits your personality. Some people enjoy direct communication and personal responsibility, while others feel more comfortable with familiar Korean workplace habits. So the question is not whether it is better in general, but whether that style fits how you work under pressure.

💡 WORDS YOU MIGHT NEED

on the spot — 그 자리에서, 즉석에서

sell yourself — 자신을 어필하다

work-life balance — 워라밸, 일과 삶의 균형

🗣️ TRY THESE PHRASES

I'd say I'd feel free because ___, since clear questions help me ___.

Honestly, the 'why' questions sound scary at first — but ___.

The thing is, the English part is what makes me nervous, because ___.

It depends on the topic, but usually the ___ matters more to me than the language.

⚡ EASY ENTRY

- 1 Are you more of a 'big Korean company' person or a 'foreign company' person when you picture your ideal job?
- 2 When was the last time you went to a job interview? What do you remember most about it?
- 3 Quick — if you had to pick: English email, English call, or English meeting — which one would you handle best?
- 4 On a scale of 1 to 5, how much do you research a company before an interview?

🗣️ MAIN DISCUSSION

Q1. In a foreign company interview, the style is often direct — they ask 'why' again and again. Would that make you feel free or exposed?

↳ I'd say I'd feel free because ___, since clear questions help me ___.

↳ Honestly, the 'why' questions sound scary at first — but ___.

Q2. Does answering in English make you more nervous than the question itself, or does the content matter more?

↳ The thing is, the English part is what makes me nervous, because ___.

↳ It depends on the topic, but usually the ___ matters more to me than the language.

Q3. Foreign interviews expect you to 'sell yourself' out loud. Is that hard for you, or kind of freeing?

↳ Compared to Korean interviews, selling myself feels ___ because ___.

↳ When I think about it, talking about my own wins is hard for me, since ___.

Q4. What part of a company's culture would you most want to check during an interview — work-life balance, growth, or the team?

↳ The first thing I'd want to check is ___, because ___ matters most to me.

↳ What helps me decide is ___, so I'd ask about ___ during the interview.

Q5. Does moving to a foreign company really mean less stress, or just a different kind of stress?

↳ I'd say it's a different kind of stress, not really less — because ___.

↳ In my case, it would feel like less stress, since ___.