

01 SMALL TALK

Are your close friends mostly the same age as you, or different ages?

Do you usually ask your friends before a big decision, or decide on your own?

When was the last time someone older gave you good advice?

02 POP QUIZ — DOES THIS SOUND NATURAL?

1 ~~"We meeting for 3 months."~~

✓ "We've been seeing each other for 3 months."

'지난 3개월간 계속'이라 현재완료진행(have been -ing)을 쓰고, 연애 맥락엔 meeting보다 seeing each other가 자연스러워요.

2 ~~"He gave me a big impression."~~

✓ "He made a big impression on me."

인상은 give가 아니라 make/leave an impression on someone으로 써요.

3 ~~"I have a some on going."~~

✓ "There's something going on between us."

'썸'은 a some이 아니라 something going on 또는 a thing으로 표현해요.

03 오늘의 워업

각 라운드 손가락으로 A 또는 B. 한 라운드마다 한 명 짧게 이유.

WARM-UP

Would You Rather (5분)

1

Date someone 10 years older who is calm and settled

vs

Date someone your own age who is still figuring life out

2

Have a partner who earns much more and pays for most things

vs

Have a partner who earns the same and you split everything

3

Date someone your friends think is 'too old or too young' for you

vs

Date someone your friends approve of but you feel less excited about

4

Be the more experienced one who often makes the big decisions

vs

Be with someone more experienced who guides the relationship

LOVE · MAIN DISCUSSION

Dating Age Gaps — Natural or Needs Explaining?

🇰🇷 BACKGROUND

연애에서 나이 차이는 숫자만의 문제가 아니라 생활 단계와 주변 시선까지 함께 따라와요. 서로 성숙하고 편하면 몇 살 차이는 자연스럽게 느껴질 수 있지만, 한쪽이 사회 경험이나 경제력, 관계 권한에서 훨씬 앞서 있으면 불편하게 보일 수도 있어요. 친구들이 반응하는 순간 나도 기준을 다시 생각하게 되죠. 중요한 건 나이 자체보다 두 사람이 비슷한 속도로 관계를 선택하고 있는지에요.

📖 READ BEFORE WE TALK

Age gaps in dating are not only about the number. They can involve life stage, experience, money, social power, and how friends and family react. A small gap may feel completely natural when both people are in similar places in life. A larger gap can still work, but it may need more explanation if one person seems to have much more control, experience, or stability. Outside opinions also affect how people feel, even when they say age does not matter. The real question is whether both people are choosing the relationship freely, comfortably, and at a similar emotional pace.

💡 WORDS YOU MIGHT NEED

See eye to eye — 의견이 잘 맞다

A deal-breaker — 절대 양보 못 하는 조건

On the same page — 같은 생각이다

Power imbalance — 힘의 불균형

Draw the line — 선을 긋다, 기준을 정하다

Settle down — 정착하다, 자리 잡다

🗣️ TRY THESE PHRASES

I'd say ___ years feels natural, because ___.

It depends on the couple, but usually around ___ feels okay.

An age gap starts to need explaining when ___.

Honestly, ___ — but only if ___.

⚡ EASY ENTRY

- 1 Are you more of a 'same-age comfort' dater or an 'age is just a number' dater?
- 2 When was the last time you noticed a couple with a clear age gap, and what was your first thought?
- 3 Quick — if you had to date with an age gap: older, younger, or only same age?
- 4 On a scale of 1 to 5, how much does a person's age matter to you when you first start liking someone?

🗣️ MAIN DISCUSSION

Q1. How many years of age gap feels natural to you in dating, and why?

↳ I'd say ___ years feels natural, because ___.

↳ It depends on the couple, but usually around ___ feels okay.

Q2. When does an age gap start to need explaining to other people?

↳ An age gap starts to need explaining when ___.

↳ Honestly, ___ — but only if ___.

Q3. What matters more than age — life stage, maturity, or money?

↳ I lean more toward ___ because ___.

↳ The way I see it, ___ matters most, since ___.

Q4. What kind of age gap would make you worried for a close friend?

↳ I'd really worry if the gap were ___, because ___.

↳ When I think about a close friend, ___ would make me nervous.

Q5. Where is your line between a normal difference and an uncomfortable imbalance?

↳ What helps me decide is ___.

↳ The thing is, a normal difference turns uncomfortable when ___.