

01 SMALL TALK

Do you let your friends use your phone, or do you keep it more private?

When was the last time someone looked at your phone screen?

Does your YouTube homepage show what you really like, or just random videos?

02 POP QUIZ — DOES THIS SOUND NATURAL?

1 ~~"He gave me a big impression."~~

✓ "He made a strong impression on me."

'give an impression'이 아니라 'make an impression on someone'이 자연스러워요. big 대신 strong.

2 ~~"I have a some on going."~~

✓ "I'm kind of seeing someone."

한국어 '썸'은 그대로 안 써요. 'kind of seeing someone' 또는 'a thing going on'으로 풀어요.

3 ~~"We meeting for 3 months."~~

✓ "We've been seeing each other for three months."

have been + -ing 시제가 필요해요. 연애에선 meeting 대신 seeing each other를 써요.

Algorithm Reveal in Early Dating — Cute Trust or Too Private?

BACKGROUND

썸 초반에 인스타 돈보거나 유튜브 추천 알고리즘을 보여줄 수 있는지는 꽤 사적인 문제예요. 메시지나 사진보다 알고리즘이 더 솔직한 취향을 보여줄 때가 있기 때문이에요. 어떤 사람은 웃으면서 보여줄 수 있지만, 어떤 사람은 아직 설명하기 어려운 관심사까지 들키는 느낌이 들 수 있어요. 초반 관계에서는 신뢰를 보여주는 행동과 사생활을 지키는 행동의 경계가 더 조심스럽게 느껴져요.

READ BEFORE WE TALK

Showing an algorithm in early dating can feel strangely intimate. It is not a private message, but it reveals your habits: what you watch, what you search, and what makes you laugh. For some people, sharing it feels cute and harmless because it creates jokes and small discoveries. For others, it feels too personal too soon. Early dating already involves reading small signals, so saying no to a feed can be misread as hiding something. The better question is whether sharing creates comfort or pressure. Trust grows more when curiosity does not demand access to every private corner. Dating standards are rarely only about romance. They also show how people understand fairness, attention, privacy, and emotional safety. The same action can look thoughtful to one person and careless to another, because people read small signals through their own past.

WORDS YOU MIGHT NEED

break the ice — 어색함을 풀다 way too soon — 너무 이르다 too personal too soon — 너무 빨리 너무 사적인
a deal-breaker — 절대 못 참는 조건 a red flag — 위험 신호
an open book — 다 드러내는 사람

TRY THESE PHRASES

Honestly, I might show it — but only once we feel comfortable.
It depends on the person, but usually I'd want to wait a little.
The thing is, my feed shows what I actually do, not what I choose to post.
Compared to photos, an algorithm feels closer to my real thoughts.

EASY ENTRY

- 1 Are you more of a YouTube-recommendations person or an Instagram-explore-page person when you're killing time?
- 2 On a scale of 1 to 5, how embarrassing would your YouTube recommendation feed be if someone saw it right now?
- 3 Quick — if you had to pick: your Instagram explore, your YouTube recommendations, or your TikTok For You — which one knows the real you best?
- 4 What's your usual move when a friend grabs your phone while your recommendation feed is wide open?

MAIN DISCUSSION

Q1. Would you show your recommendation feed to someone you just started dating? Why or why not?

Honestly, I might show it — but only once we feel comfortable.
It depends on the person, but usually I'd want to wait a little.

Q2. Why can an algorithm feel more private than normal photos?

The thing is, my feed shows what I actually do, not what I choose to post.
Compared to photos, an algorithm feels closer to my real thoughts.

Q3. If someone refuses to show their feed early on, does that seem suspicious or just private to you?

I'd say it's just private, because everyone keeps something to themselves.
The way I see it, wanting privacy doesn't mean someone is hiding something.

Q4. How early is too early for this kind of digital honesty?

In my case, the first week feels way too early to share that.
It really comes down to trust, and trust takes more than a few dates.

Q5. What online space should stay personal even when you're dating someone?

The way I see it, my private messages should always stay personal.
What stays personal for me is my chats with close friends and family.
