

01 SMALL TALK

What's the weather like today? Do you feel like going out or staying in?

Do you live near the beach, the mountains, or the city center?

What's one place you walk past almost every day?

02 POP QUIZ — DOES THIS SOUND NATURAL?

1 ~~"I took a rest in hotel."~~

✓ "I rested at the hotel. / I just relaxed at the hotel."

'take a rest'는 콩글리시예요. 그냥 'rest' 또는 'relax'를 쓰고, 'in hotel'엔 관사가 필요해서 'at the hotel'이 맞아요.

2 ~~"I want to go travel."~~

✓ "I want to travel. / I want to go on a trip."

'go travel'은 동사가 두 개 붙어서 안 돼요. 'travel'만 쓰거나 'go on a trip'으로 바꿔요.

3 ~~"The schedule is very tight."~~

✓ "My schedule is really packed."

문법은 맞지만 'The schedule'은 남 얘기처럼 들려요. 보통 'My schedule'로 말하고 native는 'packed'를 더 자주 써요.

Haeundae as a Local — Go Yourself or Just Watch Photos?

🇰🇷 BACKGROUND

부산에 살면 해운대 같은 관광지를 오히려 더 안 가게 될 때가 있어요. 언제든 갈 수 있다는 생각 때문에 미루고, 사람 많은 시즌에는 사진만 봐도 충분하다고 느끼기도 하죠. 하지만 가까운 곳이라도 직접 가면 도시를 다시 보는 순간이 생길 수 있어요. 관광객에게는 특별한 장소가 나에게 익숙한 배경일 때, 어디까지 직접 경험할 가치가 있는지가 갈려요.

📖 READ BEFORE WE TALK

Living near a famous place can make it feel less special. Haeundae is a symbol of Busan for visitors, but for locals it can become a place to avoid when it is crowded or too familiar. Looking at photos online feels easier than dealing with traffic, noise, and people. Still, going in person can change the feeling. A local spot can feel fresh again when the weather is good, when a friend visits, or when you notice small details you usually ignore. The question is whether being familiar makes a place less valuable, or gives you a better reason to see it your own way. Travel also shows our personality fast: comfort, money, planning, and rest. The same trip can feel romantic to one person and tiring to another.

💡 WORDS YOU MIGHT NEED

take it for granted — 당연하게 여긴다

put it off — 미루다

play tourist — 관광객처럼 둘러보다

go-with-the-flow — 즉흥적인, 흐름에 맡기는

not worth the hassle — 그 수고를 할 가치가 없다

a hidden gem — 아직 안 알려진 좋은 곳

🗣️ TRY THESE PHRASES

Honestly, I do enjoy them less — when something is always there, I stop really looking at it.

When I think about it, the places near me feel normal, so I save my excitement for somewhere far away.

It depends on why I'm looking, but usually photos are enough when I just want to remember how a place looks.

Most of the time, I need to go myself when the feeling matters more than the view — like the smell, the air, or the people.

⚡ EASY ENTRY

- 1 When was the last time you actually went to Haeundae — or any famous spot in your own city?
- 2 Are you more of a 'show off the famous spots' or a 'take them to my hidden local places' host when friends visit your city?
- 3 Quick — a friend from Seoul has one free afternoon in Busan: Haeundae, a local market, or a quiet café?
- 4 On a scale of 1 to 5, how often do you visit the tourist spots that are right near your home?

🗣️ MAIN DISCUSSION

Q1. Do you enjoy famous places near you less because you see them all the time?

↳ Honestly, I do enjoy them less — when something is always there, I stop really looking at it.

↳ When I think about it, the places near me feel normal, so I save my excitement for somewhere far away.

Q2. When is looking at photos enough, and when do you really need to go yourself?

↳ It depends on why I'm looking, but usually photos are enough when I just want to remember how a place looks.

↳ Most of the time, I need to go myself when the feeling matters more than the view — like the smell, the air, or the people.

Q3. Are you more of a planner or a go-with-the-flow traveler? When does your style cause a problem?

↳ I'd say I'm more of a planner because having a schedule makes me feel calm and safe.

↳ The thing is, I like to plan everything, so it becomes a problem when the plan suddenly changes and I get stressed.

Q4. What makes a trip feel not worth the money or the effort for you?

↳ It really comes down to time and money — a trip feels not worth it when I spend more than I get back.

↳ What helps me decide is how I feel at the end: if I'm only tired and waiting in lines all day, it wasn't worth it.

Q5. What makes a familiar place feel new again — the weather, the time of day, or who you go with?

↳ If I had to guess, it's mostly about who I go with, because the same place feels different with the right person.

↳ Compared to the weather or the time, the people around me make a familiar place feel completely new again.
